AUTONOMO

The peaceful Riviera del Brenta was the go-to holiday destination from the sixteenth to the eighteenth century for the Venetian aristocracy and their fabulous villas still line the "Naviglio" canal. Here, amongst today's flourishing restaurants, hotels and bars, this property commands a prime location. It comprises a large historic restaurant, with its own mooring on the canal, car park and wonderful dining rooms with a very high seating capacity inside and delightful veranda outside. Included on the Ristoranti del Buon Ricordo list, this restaurant is renowned for typical traditional Venetian wine and food and for decades has been highly esteemed and very popular with locals and foreign tourists alike. The annex in typical local style provides accommodation in the form of about 20 bedrooms.
